Cover Story — National Consumer Protection Week, March 6–12, 2011

Introduction/Overview

National Consumer Protection Week (NCPW) is a federal program, led by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) to draw attention to issues and ideas that help customers become smarter consumers of products, materials, and services and improve their knowledge of how to combat fraud. NCPW is fully supported by the U.S. Postal Service® and the U.S. Postal Inspection Service. NCPW is managed by the Office of the Consumer Advocate and the U.S. Postal Inspection Service.

What is National Consumer Protection Week?

The Office of Consumer Affairs and the U.S. Postal Inspection Service are working to educate consumers about identity theft and fraudulent schemes and provide them with the information needed to combat these illegal activities. During NCPW, other federal, state, and local consumer protection agencies — together with consumer organizations and industry associations — are launching consumer protection and education efforts around the country.

NCPW 2011 Theme

“Your Information Destination”

The national theme is intended to highlight consumer education resources available through various distribution channels. The Postal Service™ and the United States Postal Inspection Service is committed to helping consumers of all ages learn how they can protect their private information and steer clear of frauds and scams.

Priority Program

This is a priority program for Consumer Affairs managers (CAMs). CAMs will be responsible for overall program planning with assistance from U.S. postal inspectors. Corporate Communications staff will promote events and activities with local media.

District Consumer Affairs Manager

The district CAM should serve as a consultant and resource for planning NCPW activities.

Corporate Communications

Corporate Communications staff will coordinate media outreach and press coverage of the week and planned events through media advisories, news releases, letters to the editors at local newspapers, and calls to area reporters.

Postmasters and Facility Managers

Postmasters and facility managers are not mandated to participate in NCPW events, but are encouraged to join in this annual consumer awareness effort by supporting local activities during NCPW, March 6–12, 2011.

Typical Kinds of Fraudulent Schemes

This information can be used in speeches or incorporated into fact sheets or handouts for consumers.

In fraudulent schemes, scammers often look for their potential victims on websites or in chat rooms, or they share their “sucker lists” with other crooks. The scams may be disguised as a work-at-home business opportunity, a prize from a foreign lottery, or a transfer of foreign money into a U.S. bank. All of them involve receipt of a check that looks genuine and will be accepted for cashing by most banks. The scammer convinces the victim that all or part of the check must be immediately wired out of the United States. When the victim takes the bait and wires money away, he or she will be responsible for repaying the money to the bank when the check is later found to be counterfeit.

Once consumers become educated about how these schemes work, they can stop scammers before the deposit of a fake check leads to an unplanned expense of thousands of dollars. When a potential victim is stopped from participating in fraudulent schemes, a crime has been prevented from taking place.

The U.S. Postal Service goals are to do the following:

- Increase Americans’ awareness about fraudulent financial schemes.
- Give consumers valuable information about protecting their assets from the schemes.
- Provide a central location where consumers can report suspected financial fraud.

The best defense against the constantly evolving threat of fraud is to be prepared to instantly identify it. An educated public is the first line of defense. These schemes involve counterfeit checks, gift checks, traveler’s checks, or money orders. Virtually every American could be a scammer's target, primarily through e-mail, though also through mail and phone solicitations.

The Alliance for Consumer Fraud Awareness conducted a survey of American adults and found the following:

- Two out of three adults say they receive at least one potential scam contact per week.
- Eighteen percent of adults say they or a family member has fallen for one of these scams.
- A majority of those surveyed believe the fraudulent check writer is responsible for the funds.

Identity theft and fraudulent schemes are fast-growing crimes that could ruin financial investments and cost thousands of dollars. There are many types of fraudulent schemes, but they all start when someone offers a realistic-looking check or money order and asks a potential victim to send cash somewhere in return.

Below are some examples of fraudulent schemes.

The Mystery Shopper Scam

It's a new twist on the "fake check" scam: People across the country are receiving letters in the mail — accompanied by fat checks — inviting them to earn extra money as mystery shoppers.

The letter invites you to become a paid mystery shopper in your area and the letterhead and check appear to come from a legitimate U.S. company. The listed phone numbers, however, originate in Canada.

Here's how it works: the letter instructs you to deposit the check — for, say, $3,750 — into your checking account, wire $3,150 using a company like Western Union or Money Gram, keep $300 as pay, take out $200 for wiring fees, and use $100 to purchase merchandise. Then you're told to contact the person named in the letter for further instructions.

Sounds like an easy way to make money, right? But if you deposit the check, you will get a notice from the bank that it bounced. And you're left holding the bag for the $3,750.

Postal inspectors advise that if you receive this offer, do not respond. Instead, report the incident to postal inspectors at 877-876-2455 or file a report online at <https://postalinspectors.uspis.gov/forms/MailFraudComplaint.aspx>.

Reshipping Scams

Have you been asked to receive packages at your home or business and mail them to someone else? Postal inspectors advice: Don't do it!

Criminals use a variety of come-ons to trick people into reshipping fraud. They may even send counterfeit mailing labels to their recruits as a part of the scheme.

See if you recognize one of these reshipping scenarios:

Work-at-Home Scams

Criminals post phony job announcements and/or respond to resume postings on Internet career sites offering positions such as "merchandising manager," "package processing assistant," or a similar title. Job duties include receiving packages and mailing them to a foreign address on behalf of a "client." They may even ask you to complete a job application and offer you a salary. They may even send you postage-paid mailing labels to ship the merchandise overseas.

The real story: A criminal has purchased merchandise with stolen credit cards and needs your help to smuggle the goods out of the country. The company is fake — even the mailing labels are purchased with stolen credit cards — and you are committing a felony when you help out these criminals.

Sweetheart Scams

Fraudulent reshippers also lurk on dating websites. They send a few e-mails to get to know you and may even send a photo or flowers. Once they have your attention, they ask you to help their business or family by shipping packages to Europe or Africa. They may even claim to be working with a charity or mission and request help in getting "donated" merchandise delivered to Africa or another part of the world.

The real story: You're being asked to commit a crime by smuggling stolen goods. The merchandise is often purchased with stolen or fake credit cards. The photo may look like your perfect match, but it's a fake — and could be the picture of your worst nightmare. Do some research before participating in such an activity. Research the charity foundation online and call them for clarification on their procedures.

Postage-Paid Label Scams

Scammers sometimes buy merchandise on Internet auctions or classified advertisement sites (and they often use counterfeit checks or stolen credit accounts to pay). When they contact the seller, they ask if they can provide a postage-paid shipping label instead of paying for postage. Then they e-mail a label that looks legitimate.

The real story: The label is counterfeit or it was bought using a stolen credit card. When postal inspectors follow the clues to the return address, it often leads to an unsuspecting victim of a postage-paid label scam. Too often, the victim tells how the payment for the merchandise bounced, too. USPS Click-N-Ship® customers will want to make special note of this scheme.

Reshipping Fraud Prevention

- Don't respond to suspicious mail.

- Don't accept packages at your address for people you don't know.
- Be wary of anyone asking to send you a mailing label purchased online.
- Stop all communication with operators who try to solicit your help in reshipping items.
- If you already have merchandise from such an offer, don't mail it.
- Keep all correspondence (e-mails, faxes, etc.) related to these scams.
- Contact postal inspectors at 877-876-2455.

Fraud on the Internet

Old games, new tricks. Con artists are always offering deals that sound "too good to be true." Originally, they came by mail or in a phone call. Now they're coming through a more anonymous venue to pitch fraud — the Internet.

Although the Internet offers a safe and convenient venue to do business, fraudsters also like the Internet to target unsuspecting consumers.

Online scammers can ignore national borders or boundaries. They have only one objective: to steal your money. Whether it's auction fraud or identity theft, reshipping scams or foreign lotteries, be cautious, and be smart.

U.S. postal inspectors offer these tips:

- Be suspicious of e-mail that appears to be from banks, online auction sites, or other retailers.
- Never use a link in an e-mail to visit a website.
- Only purchase goods and services from sites you visited on your own.
- Examine all online offers before buying anything. When you're online, be on guard. Don't respond to suspicious e-mail.
- Never provide your personal information (Social Security number, credit card account, etc.) unless you initiated the communications.

Foreign Business Offers

The potential victim receives an e-mail from a supposed foreign official, businessman, etc., with a proposal. The sender wants to move large sums of money from a foreign country and needs assistance. The victim is usually offered a portion of the proceeds. If the victim agrees, he usually receives checks for large sums of money in the mail. The victim deposits the checks into his bank account and the funds are posted to the account and shown as "available."

The con artist wishes to send more money to the victim but quickly needs a portion of it returned in order to supposedly bribe an official, pay taxes or transfer fees, etc. The victim believes the previously deposited checks were genuine because the funds show as "available" in his bank account, so he honors the request and wires a portion of the funds back to the fraudster. The original deposited checks are later returned by the bank as counterfeit, and the victim is then held responsible for the loss and associated fees.

Sudden Riches

The potential victim receives a letter stating he has the right to receive a substantial sum of money. For example, the letter may say that the potential victim has won a foreign lottery or is the beneficiary of someone's estate, such as that of a long-lost relative. The letter will inform the victim that he must pay taxes and/or a processing or transfer fee before receiving the money. However, a check or money order is enclosed to cover the required fee. The letter will ask the victim to deposit the check or money order into his bank account and wire the fee to a third party, usually in a foreign country.

No legitimate contest promoter will ever ask for money to be paid upfront in order to send out a prize. It's also wise to ask yourself whether you even entered the contest in the first place.

Overpayments

A scammer offers overpayments on items that a consumer advertised in the classifieds or an online auction. The scammer sends the seller a check or money order for more than the purchase price and then asks that the extra money be sent to a company or someone who will take care of shipping.

In another scenario, scam artists say that a check or money order payment will come from someone who owes them money and tells the victim to deduct his/her share and send the rest. They may claim they're in a foreign country and that because of currency differences it's difficult to make payment directly.

Consumers who buy and sell on Craigslist should make special note of this scheme.

Scammers sometimes claim they sent the wrong amount "by mistake" and ask victims to return the excess. Legitimate buyers will be happy to send the exact amount you're owed.

Suggested Message Points

These message points can be used at National Consumer Protection Week events:

- It's never too early or too late to become a more informed and empowered consumer. This year, NCPW is working to educate all consumers on how they can protect themselves from scammers.
- The United States Postal Service has long been part of the fabric of the nation, bringing people together through the power of the mail. Postal employees make a difference in every community across the country.
- The Postal Service has been named most trusted government agency for 6 consecutive years by the Ponemon Institute, and is committed to maintaining the public's trust.
- The Postal Inspection Service, one of the country's oldest federal law enforcement agencies, has more than 200 years of experience protecting the nation's mail system and ensuring public trust in the mail.
- We are proud to help spread the word and increase awareness about consumer fraud and educate consumers of all ages on how they can better protect themselves from scams.

Common Defenses Against Fraudulent Schemes

- It is never too early to learn the warning signs of scams:

- Sounds too good to be true. (If it sounds too good to be true, it usually is.)
- Pressure to act right away.
- Guaranteed success.
- Promises unrealistically high returns.
- Requires up-front investment — even for a free prize.
- Doesn't act like a real business (multiple addresses, multiple phone numbers, etc.).
- Something doesn't feel right.
- And even if all looks right, it never hurts to do your homework and check the offer out with a local Better Business Bureau, state's attorney's office, or local consumer groups.
- Even if the person or company has no track record of complaints, a scam may be familiar to watchdog consumer protection agencies.
- Don't hesitate to discuss identity theft and fraudulent schemes with friends and family.
- And don't forget to watch out for those you love — sometimes just a simple "What's new?" can alert you to a loved one who has become a victim of identity theft.

Questions and Answers: Identity Theft and Fraudulent Schemes

Q. Why should consumers be alert to identity theft and fraudulent schemes?

- A. These crimes are a growing problem, and millions of American consumers are being targeted by scam artists.
- Wiring money that appears to have come from a fraudulent scheme could destroy your financial foundation.
 - Not only could you be out the money you wired, your bank could charge return or overdraft fees to your account.
 - You are responsible for the money you put into your bank account, and also for what you withdraw or wire out. If the check is a fake, you're required to make good on the loss.
 - Almost any business account can be made into a counterfeit. The newest complaints include cashier's checks, checks that look like they're drawn on business accounts, money orders, traveler's checks, and gift checks.
 - Just because a deposited check shows up as "funds available" in your account register, it doesn't mean the check is good or has cleared.

This is a common theme in all fraudulent schemes.

- Federal law gives consumers the right to have quick access to the funds from deposited checks (usually within 1 to 5 days). However, it can take weeks for counterfeit checks to be discovered and returned to the original depositor.
- The consumer is then responsible for all fees associated with a fraudulent scheme. No one who wants to give you money should ask you to send them money back.

Q. How does the Postal Inspection Service help to prevent identity theft and fraudulent schemes?

A. The Mail Fraud Statute is the oldest and most effective consumer protection statute, and postal inspectors have been using this law to preserve the integrity of the U.S. Mail since it was enacted in 1872. Postal Inspection Service efforts have combined vigorous enforcement of the law with public education, consumer awareness, and crime prevention programs. Postal inspectors work with local, state, federal, and international law enforcement agencies — as well as a variety of bank and credit card issuers, financial institutions, retail merchants, credit bureaus, and other industry sources — to educate consumers and to prevent the spread of identity theft and fraudulent schemes.

Q. What can consumers do to protect themselves from becoming victims of identity theft and fraudulent schemes?

A. Use common sense. Take your time when responding to offers. Investigate. Talk to family, friends, and local consumer protection experts. Educate yourself about fraud. Know who you are dealing with. And protect your personal information. Every year, thousands of people and businesses are victimized by scammers. In general, consumers should be skeptical of any offer that sounds “too good to be true.”

Q. What should consumers do if they suspect fraud?

A. It is important to report the fraud to law enforcement. Since many fraudulent solicitations come through the mail, U.S. postal inspectors have taken the lead in investigating these schemes. A fraud complaint can be filed online at the website FakeChecks.org or by telephoning 800-372-8347.

The Federal Trade Commission works for the consumer to prevent fraud and deception. Call 877-FTC-HELP (877-382-4357) or log on to www.ftc.gov.

Locate your local Better Business Bureau at www.bbb.org.

Q. What is a fraudulent scheme?

A. It's a fast-growing fraud that could cost you thousands of dollars. There are many types of fraudulent schemes, but it all starts when someone offers a realistic-looking check or money order and asks you to send cash somewhere in return. It's phony, and so is the person's story, but that may take weeks to discover. Now, your bank wants the money back. Turns out that just because you can get the cash doesn't mean the check or money order is good. If it's not, the crook will be richer and you'll be the loser, because you're responsible for the checks or money orders you deposit or cash. That's how the scam works.

Q. How do the scammers find victims?

A. They scan newspaper and online advertisements looking for people listing items for sale or places to rent. They check postings on online job sites from people seeking work-at-home employment and place their own ads with phone numbers or e-mail addresses for people to contact them. They meet people through social networking sites, chat rooms, and other places online. They make phone calls and send faxes, e-mails, or letters to people randomly, knowing that some will take the bait.

Q. How can I tell if an offer is fraudulent?

A. Know the scenario of a fraudulent scheme:

- No legitimate transaction includes overpayment or requires a refund.
- Typically, counterfeit checks and money orders are so realistic-looking that even bank tellers can be fooled. You can get information from money order and check providers with tips to help tell if their products are real.
- The best way to avoid being a victim is to be cautious. If it seems too good to be true, it likely is. If the person approaches you and wants to complete the transaction in a hurried manner or is pressuring you to do so, reconsider the transaction altogether.

Q. Why do scammers want cash to be sent using a money transfer service?

A. Because it's fast — the money is often available to them within minutes. That means the victim may not be able to stop the payment before it's received. Since the money is usually picked up in cash and in person, it may be impossible to find the crook and get it back. Some scammers are also instructing victims to send cash using a delivery service. If you suspect you've been scammed, immediately contact the money transfer service or delivery service you used — it may be possible to stop the crook from getting the money if it hasn't been picked up yet.

Q. Why can't my bank, credit union, or check cashing service tell if the check or money order is good?

A. When you deposit a check or money order, federal law requires you to have access to the funds within 1 to 5 days, but the actual processing takes longer. Banks, credit unions, and check cashing services accept checks and money orders based on your identification. They don't have any information about the source. Because the check or money order goes back to the source, it can take a while for counterfeits to be discovered. For instance, if a check seems to come from a business account, the business may not learn about it until it appears on the next statement. You're responsible because you're in the best position to determine the risk of accepting the check or money order. You dealt with the person who gave it to you.

Q. What if I deposited or cashed the check or money order but haven't sent the cash yet?

A. Immediately notify your bank, credit union, or a check cashing service if you used one. You will need to return the money or have your account corrected. Explain that you've been scammed and ask not to have any negative action taken against you such as closing your account or reporting you to a checking account abuse database. If that has already happened, ask if that action can be reversed. File a report with your local police to put on record that you're a scam victim. Report the scam to the National Consumers League, which will pass the information along to law enforcement agencies.

Q. How much could I lose in a fraudulent scheme?

A. According to the National Consumers League, victims lose an average of $4,000 — a significant amount for most people. But your losses could be even higher. If you engaged in multiple transactions or if you used some of the money to pay bills or for other purposes, you'll have to pay that amount back to your bank or credit union as well. There may also be bounced check and overdraft charges as a result of the scam. And you could lose more than money — your account could be closed and it could harm your credit rating. Some victims have even resorted to criminal acts to recoup their losses.

Q. How can I avoid becoming a victim?

A. Think about it — there is no legitimate reason why a stranger would give you a check or money order and ask you to send cash anywhere in return. Be aware that just because you can get the cash quickly — usually in 1 to 5 days — doesn't mean the check or money order is good. Crooks take advantage of the fact that counterfeits can take weeks — even months — to discover. By then, you've sent the money and have to pay it back to your bank. Only cash a check or money order from a person or business you know or trust. When making any business deal, do not be rushed.

Take your time to be certain you trust the people you are dealing with. You can be a fraud fighter by telling everyone you know — your family and friends, the people with whom you work or go to school, the people who attend your place of worship, the people you chat with online, the members of clubs or other groups to which you belong — to learn the warning signs of fraudulent schemes and know how to prevent becoming a victim. Send them the links to the videos in this kit and encourage them to spread the word.

Suggested Activities

Listed below are suggested activities to highlight the week's event:

- Have an NCPW kickoff and open house.
- Invite a local expert to speak. A local postal inspector would be perfect, but a representative from a consumer advocacy group or an appropriate regulatory body would also be good.
- Invite a bank or credit union official to a sponsored event to discuss what could happen to fraud victims from a financial institution perspective.
- If you can find someone willing to be identified as a victim, invite that person to speak.
- Collaborate with a financial institution to host an event about identity theft and fraudulent schemes.
- Establish a partnership with other federal agencies, community groups, educational institutions, and businesses to sponsor educational workshops or seminars for consumers all ages.
- Hold a joint news conference with another consumer agency and include a local postal inspector. The postal inspector can discuss fraud from a national and community perspective.
- Working with Corporate Communications, contact your local television, radio, and cable access station to do an interview on the tools consumers need to fight fraud.
- Work with a local postal inspector to inform senior citizens about fraudulent schemes. Hold seminars at local retirement communities. Postal inspectors can discuss recent identity theft cases, fraudulent schemes, and steps to prevent older Americans from becoming victims.
- Provide your postal employees with information about NCPW activities planned for your area.

- Set up a booth at a busy shopping area, and distribute brochures on fraud prevention and other consumer information. Show identity theft and fraud prevention videos.
- Work with local schools, colleges, and universities to have an NCPW event to raise awareness among students, parents, and faculty.
- Work with local Girl Scout and Boy Scout troops and other community-based youth clubs to host an event to educate young people about protecting themselves against fraud and scams.
- Let customers know that for 6 years the U.S. Postal Service has been named in a national survey as the most trusted government agency in protecting consumers' privacy. Refer customers to the following websites for additional information: www.usps.com, <https://postalinspectors.uspis.gov/>, and/or www.deliveringtrust.com.
- Hand out consumer publications such as:
 - Publication 280, Identity Theft.
 - Publication 281, Consumer Fraud by Phone or Mail: Know How to Protect Yourself (also available in Spanish).
 - Publication 300-A, U.S. Postal Inspection Service Guide To Preventing Mail Fraud.
 - Publication 370, Extra Services.
 - Notice 129, Don't Be the Victim of a Reshipping Scam!
 - Notice 174, Don't Be the Victim of a Check Scam!
- Shout it from the rooftops. Tell friends, family, colleagues, and others about National Consumer Protection Week. Word of mouth is a very powerful tool!

Good [MORNING/AFTERNOON/EVENING].

It's a pleasure to be with you today.

For the past 13 years, the country has dedicated one full week to National Consumer Protection Week. It is a time when government agencies, consumer protection groups, and industry associations join forces to shine a spotlight on issues and ideas that help people become better consumers and improve their knowledge of how to combat fraud.

The U.S. Postal Service and the Postal Inspection Service have been members of the Steering Committee for National Consumer Protection Week since 1998, and we are pleased and proud to once again be a part of this year's effort to help spread the word and increase awareness about consumer protection issues.

The theme of this year's National Consumer Protection Week is "Your Information Destination," and what better way to highlight the importance of using good consumer sense at every stage of life.

With so much personal information that is readily available, both online and in the mail, we have learned that age doesn't matter when it comes to crimes like identity theft. Indeed, we know that children are ideal victims for identity theft because they have viable social security numbers with available credit, and often it is years later before the identity theft scam is uncovered.

We also know that school-age children are increasingly vulnerable to fraud and scams due to their use of technology.

So, it's never too early to learn how to protect yourself and your personal information.

For the U.S. Postal Service, customer service and consumer protection are year-round priorities, and we are very proud of the fact that, for 236 years, Americans have placed their trust in the mail.

For over 200 years, postal inspectors have been fighting fraud, protecting the mail, and delivering justice for the American people to promote the honesty and integrity of the American marketplace.

In fact, Americans have voted the U.S. Postal Service as the most trusted government agency for protection of consumers' privacy for 6 years in a row.

We take our universal service obligation — to connect every household and business in the country through the mail — very seriously, and we also know that an educated consumer is the best defense against criminals. That is why we're doing all that we can to educate, advise, and encourage consumers to learn how they can protect their privacy, avoid identity theft, and steer clear of frauds and scams.

Unfortunately, scams flourish during difficult financial times. For example, work-at-home scams are being used by fraudsters with greater frequency. That is why postal inspectors are warning the public about this new twist on an old scam.

And you may have heard about mystery shoppers: where you may receive a letter accompanied by a fat check and the invitation to earn extra money as a mystery shopper.

The letter and check will appear to come from a legitimate U.S. company; however, the listed phone numbers originate in Canada.

The letter instructs you to deposit the check into your checking account, withdraw an equal amount from your account, and wire it to the address on the letter. You are encouraged to keep a small amount to cover the wire fees and the cost of merchandise purchased.

The problem is the check will prove to be worthless and you'll be left holding the bag for the amount you wired.

Postal inspectors advise that the safest way to handle this offer is to not respond. Report incidents to <http://postalinspectors.uspis.gov> or call 877-876-2455.

At the Postal Service, we want you to learn about how to protect yourselves from fraudulent schemes and identity theft, because being educated about these crimes could keep you from losing thousands of dollars.

Consumers of all ages should educate themselves on how to recognize other fraudulent schemes, such as cross border fraud, check fraud, identity theft, foreign lottery fraud, investment fraud, and Internet fraud.

There are many forms of fraud — and we can be sure that con artists and identity thieves will continue to devise new ways to commit their crimes and defraud the public.

But, there is no reason any of us should feel defenseless or become a victim.

National Consumer Protection Week is the perfect opportunity to make an investment in yourself and your family with education on schemes seeking to destroy everything you've worked so hard to build.

Do not make the mistake of thinking that it can't happen to you — or that you are too smart for this kind of thing.

If you become a victim of fraud report it to local authorities.

It has happened to the best of us. It happens to people just like you and me.

Consumers must do all we can to put scammers out of business. The only true way to stop these crimes is through increased public awareness, education, vigilance, and aggressive law enforcement.

In closing, I'd like to leave you with six short tips on how you can avoid scams:

- First, if it sounds too good to be true — it is.
- Second, remember that foreign lotteries are illegal in the U.S.
- Third, always check your monthly bank statements.
- Fourth, on an annual basis, order and review your credit reports from the three credit bureaus — Experian, Equifax, and TransUnion.

- Fifth, never deposit a check if you don't know who sent it to you.
- Sixth, remember that your bank will never e-mail or call asking for your account number, password, credit card number, or other private information.

If you follow these tips and exercise good judgment and common sense, it is likely you can avoid becoming a victim. To learn more, visit our fraud education and prevention website at www.deliveringtrust.com.

On behalf of the U.S. Postal Service, I'd like to thank all of you — our customers — for your business and for trusting us with your mail. It's truly a pleasure to serve you.

Thank you!

Proclamation: NCPW 2011

This proclamation can be adapted to reflect local community information and printed and displayed at NCPW events as a visible display of a community's commitment to promoting National Consumer Protection Week.

Whereas National Consumer Protection Week was established in 1998 by representatives of federal, state, and local governments as well as national advocacy groups as a means to highlight consumer protection,

Whereas the postmaster general established the Office of the Consumer Advocate in 1971 to ensure that the interests of consumers would serve to guide the development, progress, and actions of the United States Postal Service,

Whereas postal inspectors have safeguarded the sanctity of the U.S. Mail and protected Postal Service customers for more than 200 years, combating crimes such as robberies, mail theft, and fraud,

Whereas consumer fraud is detrimental to the economic interests of the nation and the well-being of its citizens,

Whereas fraud is destructive not only to individuals but to families, threatening their livelihoods, endangering their retirements, and attacking their household security,

Whereas fraud of all kinds frequently depends for its success upon the compliance and participation of its victims,

Whereas by its very nature fraud can be reduced and often eliminated by consumers who are educated and use common sense,

Whereas the national theme for this year is "Your Information Destination,"

Whereas the focus of our efforts is on identity theft and fraudulent schemes,

And, whereas the [NAME OF LOCAL CITY, MUNICIPALITY, ETC.] is home to more than [X THOUSAND] men, women, and children who depend on an open, honest, safe, and secure marketplace to conduct commerce and earn a living,

Therefore, be it resolved, that [LOCAL COMMUNITY OR ORGANIZATION]

- (1) Supports National Consumer Protection Week.
- (2) Joins with the Postal Service and the Postal Inspection Service to educate consumers on how to recognize and avoid identity theft and fraudulent schemes.
- (3) And, declares (day of event) as Consumer Awareness Day.

Verifying U.S. Postal Service Money Orders

Follow these steps to cash a Postal Service™ money order:

1. Check that the amount does not exceed the legal limit: $1,000 for domestic, and $700 for international postal money orders.
2. Check that the proper security features are present:
 - When held to the light, a watermark of Benjamin Franklin is repeated from top to bottom on the left side.
 - When held to the light, a dark line (security thread) runs from top to bottom with the word "USPS" repeated.
 - There should be no discoloration around the dollar amounts, which might indicate the amounts were changes.

These appear in Postal Service Notice 299, U.S. Postal Money Order Reference Card, or online at <http://www.usps.com/missingmoneyorders/security.htm>.

3. If the money order seems suspicious, call the U.S. Postal Service Money Order Verification System at 866-459-7822.

Please provide this information to local banks and retailers, as they also receive Postal Service money orders for cashing.

Overseas Military/Diplomatic Mail

Mail addressed to military and diplomatic post offices overseas is subject to certain conditions or restrictions of mailing regarding content, preparation, and handling. The APO/FPO/DPO table below outlines these conditions by APO/FPO/DPO ZIP Codes™ through the use of footnoted mailing restrictions codes (see the Restrictions page following the table).

Acceptance clerks should use the table with the integrated retail terminal (IRT) or POS ONE terminal to determine which APO/FPO/DPO ZIP Codes are active and which conditions of mailing apply. Acceptance clerks may contact the Military Postal Service Agency with any questions regarding APO/FPO/DPO ZIP Codes, toll free, at 800-810-6098, Monday–Friday, 0730–1600 ET.

For Express Mail Military Service (EMMS) availability, all acceptance clerks must refer to the local hardcopy EMMS directory.

If it were a private sector company, the U.S. Postal Service would rank 29th in the 2010 Fortune 500. Black Enterprise and Hispanic Business magazines ranked the Postal Service as a leader in workforce diversity. The Postal Service has been named the Most Trusted Government Agency six consecutive years and the sixth Most Trusted Business in the nation by the Ponemon Institute.

U.S. Postal Service and the U.S. Postal Inspection Service Celebrate National Consumer Protection Week

Educate Consumers of All Ages How to Avoid Scams and Fraud

[INSERT TOWN] — Today the United States Postal Service® and the Postal Inspection Service join with federal, state and local government agencies and consumer protection organizations to announce the 13th Annual National Consumer Protection Week (NCPW), March 6–12, 2011. This coordinated consumer education campaign encourages individuals across the country to take full advantage of their consumer rights.

This year's theme — "Your Information Destination" — highlights resources available to consumers through various channels. In recognition of NCPW 2011, the Postal Service™ and its partners are promoting free resources to help people protect their privacy, manage money and debt, avoid identity theft, understand credit and mortgages and steer clear of frauds and scams.

"The message of National Consumer Protection Week 2011 is simple: It's never too early or too late to become a more informed and empowered consumer," said [POSTMASTER]. "Regardless of your age or financial situation, there are useful lessons to learn about protecting privacy and avoiding scams and fraud schemes. The Postal Service encourages everyone to visit the U.S. Postal Service/Postal Inspection Service website dedicated to fraud education and prevention, www.deliveringtrust.com, and the NCPW website sponsored by the Federal Trade Commission, www.ncpw.gov, for tips about making smarter decisions in the marketplace."

[HERE, HIGHLIGHT YOUR ORGANIZATION'S 2011 NCPW EVENT]

A self-supporting government enterprise, the U.S. Postal Service is the only delivery service that reaches every address in the nation — 150 million residences, businesses and Post Office™ Boxes. The Postal Service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses, and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations. With 32,000 retail locations and the most frequently visited website in the federal government, usps.com, the Postal Service has annual revenue of more than $67 billion and delivers nearly 40 percent of the world's mail. If it were a private sector company, the U.S. Postal Service would rank 29th in the 2010 Fortune 500. Black Enterprise and Hispanic Business magazines ranked the Postal Service as a leader in workforce diversity. The Postal Service has been named the Most Trusted Government Agency six consecutive years and the sixth Most Trusted Business in the nation by the Ponemon Institute.

The U.S. Postal Inspection Service is the federal law enforcement, security and crime prevention arm of the United States Postal Service that protects the U.S. Postal Service, secures the nation's mail system and ensures public trust in the mail. Under the provisions of Title 39 of the United States Code (U.S.C.) 3401(a)(1) and pursuant to Executive Order 12556, dated April 16, 1986, the Secretary of Defense may authorize or terminate free mail privileges for members of the U.S. Armed Forces and designated civilians directly supporting military operations in designated international locations.

In accordance with 39 U.S.C. 3401(a)(1)(B), free mail privileges will also be extended to individuals hospitalized for disease or injury in a facility under the jurisdiction of the Armed Forces as a result of service in these designated areas.

Personnel who are authorized this privilege may mail — without postage — letters, postcards, and sound recordings (audio or video recordings) having the character of personal correspondence to any place in the United States, to any U.S. possession or territory, or to any military post office (APO/FPO).

Free mail originating from the above overseas locations should have a complete APO or FPO return address, the word “Free” in the upper right corner, and a complete delivery address. In most cases, the mailpiece will also exhibit an APO or FPO postmark. Free mail receives First-Class Mail® service; however, it may not be registered, insured, or certified.

All employees who handle and deliver mail should be made aware of this free mail privilege. Do not collect postage upon delivery; do not return this mail to the sender for postage. Effective immediately, customers who apply Intelligent Mail® barcodes to their Business Reply Mail (BRM), Permit Reply Mail (PRM), and Metered Reply Mail (MRM) are asked to begin using new Service Type Identifiers (STIDs). The following chart depicts the new STIDs that are to be used for all reply mail.

Description of Reply Mail Types	Old	New
Courtesy Reply Mail and Metered Reply Mail Without Confirm	700	703
Courtesy Reply Mail With Confirm	050 (No Change)
Permit Reply Mail With Confirm	050	051
Permit Reply Mail Without Confirm	700	701
Metered Reply Mail With Confirm	050	N/A
Business Reply Mail (including Qualified BRM) Without Confirm	708 (No Change)
Business Reply Mail (including Qualified BRM) With confirm	052 (No Change)

Previously, CRM, PRM, and MRM shared the same STIDs as other categories of First-Class Mail®. The new STIDs enable the proper identification and reporting of reply mailpieces bearing an Intelligent Mail barcode (IMb™) as they move through the postal system.

Reply mailers are to use the new STIDs when replenishing their reply mail inventory. The Postal Service will continue to process reply mailpieces encoded with the old STIDs without penalty.

The entire list of STIDs can be found online at <http://ribbs.usps.gov>.

International Mail

Temporary Suspension of Mail Service to Egypt

Effective immediately, the Postal Service™ is temporarily suspending mail service to Egypt. Until further notice, all Post Office™ facilities and other acceptance locations must not accept any mail destined to the country of Egypt. The temporary suspension effects Global Express Guaranteed® (GXG®), Express Mail International®, Priority Mail International®, and First-Class Mail International®, International Priority Airmail™ (IPA®) International Surface Air Lift® (ISAL®), and M-Bag items.

For already deposited items addressed to Egypt, Postal Service employees must endorse them “Mail Service Temporarily Suspended — Return to Sender” and then place them in the mailstream for return.

For all returned GXG items, Express Mail International items, or any other item bearing a customs declaration form, upon request, the Postal Service will refund postage and fees on mail returned due to the suspension of service.

For all other returned items not bearing a customs declarations form, upon request, the Postal Service will refund postage and fees on mail returned due to the suspension of service, or the sender may remail them with the existing postage once service to Egypt has been restored. When remailing under this options, customers must cross out the markings “Mail Service Temporarily Suspended — Return to Sender”.

Pictorial Postmarks Announcement

As a community service, the Postal Service™ offers pictorial postmarks to commemorate local events celebrated in communities throughout the nation. A list of events for which pictorial postmarks are authorized appears below. The sponsor of the pictorial postmark appears in italics under the date. Also provided are illustrations of these postmarks.

People attending these local events may obtain the postmark in person at the temporary Post Office™ station established there. Those who cannot attend the event but who wish to obtain the postmark may submit a mail order request. Pictorial postmarks are available only for the dates indicated, and requests must be postmarked no later than 30 days following the requested pictorial postmark date.

All requests must include a stamped envelope or postcard bearing at least the minimum First-Class Mail® postage. Items submitted for postmark may not include postage issued after the date of the requested postmark. Such items will be returned unserviced.

Customers wishing to obtain a postmark should affix stamps to any envelope or postcard of their choice, address the envelope or postcard to themselves or others, insert a card of postcard thickness in envelopes for sturdiness, and tuck in the flap. Place the envelope or postcard in a larger envelope and address it to: Pictorial Postmarks, followed by the Name of the Station, Address, City, State, ZIP+4® Code, as listed below.

Customers can also send stamped envelopes and postcards without addresses for postmark, as long as they supply a larger envelope with adequate postage and their return address. After applying the pictorial postmark, the Postal Service returns the items (with or without addresses) under addressed protective cover.

The following pictorial postmark has been extended for 90 days:

How to Order the First Day of Issue Digital Color or Traditional Postmarks

Customers have 60 days to obtain the first day of issue postmarks by mail. They may purchase new stamps at their local Post Office™, by telephone at 800-STAMP-24, or at The Postal Store® website at www.usps.com/shop.

Traditional Postmarks

Customers should affix the stamps to envelopes of their choice, address them to themselves or others, or provide a self-addressed return envelope with sufficient postage large enough to accommodate the canceled item. Mail the request to the corresponding city of issuance. There is no charge for the first 50 postmarks. There is a 5-cent charge for each additional postmark over 50. Customers should submit a check, money order, or credit card for payment. After applying the first day of issue postmark, the Postal Service™ will return the envelopes to the customer by U.S. Mail.

All postmark requests should go to the first day of issue city. The first day of issue city Post Office will then forward in bulk all postmark requests to Cancellation Services, Stamp Fulfillment Services, PO Box 449992, Kansas City, MO 64144-9992 by respective Post Offices.

Digital Color Postmarks

Only select stamp issues offer a digital color postmark. Customers may submit #6 or #10 envelopes constructed of paper rated as "laser safe." The Postal Service recommends envelopes of 80-pound Accent Opaque, acid-free, 9/16" side seams with no glue on the flap. The maximum size of all digital color postmarks is 2" high x 4" long. Allow sufficient space on the envelope to accommodate the postmark. Do not use self-adhesive labels for addresses on the envelope. Two test envelopes must be included. There is a minimum of 10 envelopes at 50 cents per postmark required at the time of servicing. Customers should submit a check, money order, or credit card for payment.

The Postal Service reserves the right to not accept hand-painted and other cachet envelopes that are not compatible with our digital color postmark equipment. The Postal Service also reserves the right to substitute traditional black rubber postmarks if use of nonspecified envelopes results in poor image quality or damage to equipment.

Customers should affix the stamps to the envelopes and address them to themselves or others for return through the mail. Or, they may include an additional self-addressed return envelope, large enough to accommodate their canceled items, with sufficient postage affixed for return of their postmarked items. Mail the request for a first day of issue digital color postmark to the corresponding city of issuance. Post Offices will then forward all customer requests for digital color postmarks to Cancellation Services, Stamp Fulfillment Services, PO Box 449992, Kansas City, MO 64144-9992.

After applying the first day of issue postmark, the Postal Service will return the envelopes to the customer by U.S. Mail.

The background of the main text area is a collage. It features a large, bold "USPS" logo at the top. Below it, the text "receives no federal tax dollars for its operations." is written in a large, white, sans-serif font with a black outline. The background itself is a mix of US dollar bills (showing the "100" and "FEDERAL RESERVE NOTE" text) and a grayscale image of the US Capitol dome.
